

Jessica Alba Dynasty League – Regular Season Review

I. General

We made it through week 14 with another record-breaking season! Thank you all for being so active and engaged in the league and for making the moves to keep the league competitive.

And competitive it was. Almost everyone was in with a shout of the playoffs with three games remaining and only three out of it with one crucial match to play.

Congratulations must go to Alex, Gareth and Neil; you're all in with a shout of picking up that coveted No. 1 pick in the Bijan Bowl! Commiserations go to Chris who sacrificed so much but missed out on the playoffs. There's always next year.

Last season I commended myself for taking the No. 1 spot quite comfortably, so I'll do the same for Lee. Congratulations to Chris, Lee, Mike, Ross and your Noble Commissioner who all entered the top all-time scoring seasons. I think this show how competitive this season was...in the MFC at least.

II. Kittle-less Chips (Alex) – LFC 5th – Seed #10

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
2	12	1,292.24 (10)	1,619.48 (3)	-327.24 (9)	1,636.96 (10)	344.72 (5)	78.9 (10)	126.78	57.36

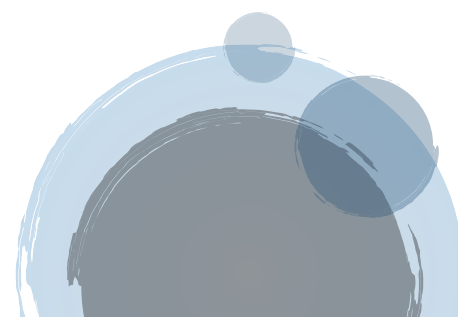

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
40	10 th	10 th	48 (+8)	10 th	-	-

Well, what can I say about Alex's season? I know this is what was projected but I never thought I'd see a season this bad. All-time low points scored and potential points. A couple of entries into weekly lows. League record losses. A league record loss streak, beating the record already achieved by Gareth earlier in the year. Dismal. Tragic. I fear for its future.

Did Alex once again suffer injury problems? Yes. Did it matter? When the names are Allen Robinson, Brian Hoyer, Chase Edmonds and Darnell Mooney, not really. If anything, he's had his least injury struck season and possibly the healthiest team in the league.

His players matched last year's consistency; they were consistently bad though. Only five top positional scorers and I suppose it's a positive he didn't leave that many points on his bench only taking the weekly 'awards' 3 times. Oddly enough he did win the best manager award twice but was also worst manager just twice. He was the lowest scoring manager a record eight times!

So, is the commitment to success in future years going to pay off? Ah, no. It seems unlikely his side is good enough to win the 1.01. It does look like it's good enough to take home that golden turd though. Maybe next year he can take that 1.01 or hope that Chris repeats his misadventure or Lee has a fall from grace? I feel I need to end with something positive to say so.....I think he'll be a top contender in 2026.....maybe.

III. The Commandos (Gareth) – LFC 4th – Seed #9

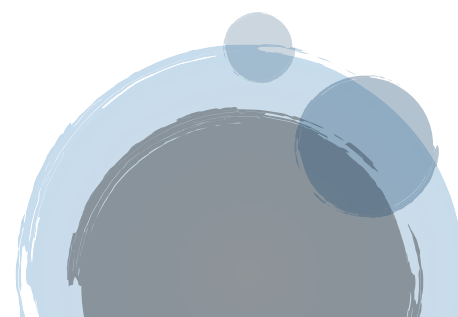

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
4	10	1,488.40 (9)	1,884.86 (10)	-396.46 (10)	1,872.62 (9)	384.22 (9)	79.5 (9)	134.42	64.46

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
71	9 th	9 th	58 (-15)	9 th	-	-

He came 9th last season, projected 9th for this year and he eventually finished 9th. It seems like this was deliberate but was it??? He traded his first-round pick from last year which again meant that Gareth didn't have an injection of youth to immediately plug and play into his aging side but it looks like that may have worked out nicely for him in the upcoming draft. But this season was a bit of a lost year particularly with injuries to Keenan Allen, Gus Bus, CEH, Allen Lazard, Christian Watson, Waller Tim Patrick, Hunter Renfrow and Javonte Williams hit, hard times fell on the 'Mandos.

As the league's second lowest actual and potential points scorer (again), it'll come as no surprise that Gareth's players had the fewest top scoring appearances in the weekly awards with an all-time low of 2 top scorers and just 7 benchwarmers. He's also gone from an all-time record best manager to never winning the award but topping the charts by 'winning' the worst manager award 4 times!

Now he's out of the playoff hunt, maybe there could be a change of tac and he could finally consider shifting some of those veterans for younger prospects and/or picks??? Unlikely – I'm sure he'll be hoping for one last hurrah from his aging players now can help bolster his 'young studs' into a contending side again.

IV. Canton Giants (Neil) – MFC 5th – Seed #8

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
4	10	1,612.26 (8)	1,819.46 (9)	-207.20 (8)	1,949.74 (8)	337.48 (4)	82.7 (=6)	161.74	80.40

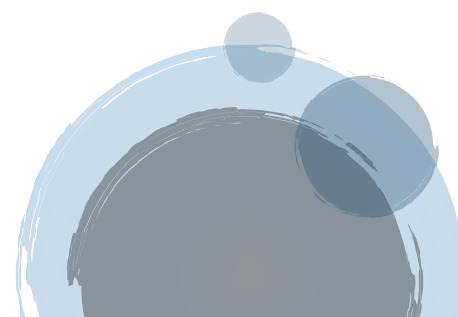

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
71	8 th	8 th	69 (-2)	8 th	-	-

While Neil blew up the pre-season predictions last year, alas this year he didn't have such good fortune. His hopes have been hampered by being drawn in the stronger conference evidenced by losses across the divisional round of fixtures but winning the one against the LFC.

Neil's not had a lot of luck with injuries. He's lost Connor, Mike Williams, Alvin Kamara, Slayton and Cooper Kupp for various parts of the season. He has had a shining light in Jared Goff though. Who'd have thought that at the beginning of the season!?

Neil's players have featured rarely in the top scoring position weekly awards with just 5. His bench however took home 15 of these weekly 'awards' although 8 of these were the kicker club which he's so fond of he even at one point tried to sacrifice Jared Goff to pick up another one! He did manage to win best manager once and was also worst manager once.

Neil's season could still end with a massive positive if he gains a bit of form. He's got himself a lottery ticket for the 1.01 and we'll see how far he can go. One thing for certain, he'll be hoping that golden turd doesn't adorn his mantelpiece for another 12 months.

V. Falcons (Chris) – MFC 4th – Seed #7

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
8	6	1,826.52 (5)	1,577.48 (1)	249.04 (1)	2,172.52 (5)	346.00 (5)	84.1 (4)	166.80	101.78

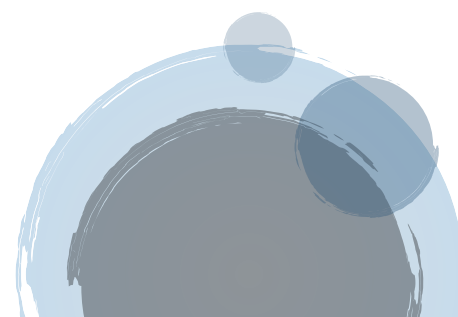

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
88	4 th	5 th	81 (-7)	5 th	-1	-

Although Chris' team met it's pre-season prediction, unfortunately he is the first 'victim' of the new conference set-up and the fierce competition in the MFC. His team of intrepid crooks, sex offenders and Kyler Murray started badly, losing 3 of his first four games, while they waited for their master felon to serve out his time. The Falcons bounced back in the middle of the season winning 6 of 7 and putting him back in playoff contention.

However, the season finished badly. In a very competitive MFC, losing five times to divisional rivals proved too costly and, despite a statistically good season, was unable to make the playoffs. His young offenders were struck by several injuries which contributed to his downfall including: Kenneth Walker, Julio, Michael Thomas, Rashod Bateman, Khalil Herbert, Wan'Dale Robinson and crucially Kyler Murray 90 seconds into the week 14 finale!

Chris' bandits often featured in a top scoring position, picking up just 13 of these weekly awards, the second most in the league. His bench also took the weekly 'awards' by storm with 11 awards, 4th overall. He was best manager twice and was never the worst manager after setting an all-time league high of 5 times! An achievement to be proud of. In fact, he was the fourth best picker overall picking up 84.1% of his maximum points.

Going into the toilet bowl for the second consecutive time, Chris goes in as favourite to take the coveted No. 1 pick.....for Gareth!

VI. Dak to the Future (Dave) – LFC 3rd – Seed #6

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
8	6	1,644.64 (7)	1,615.32 (2)	29.32 (6)	1,998.28 (7)	353.64 (6)	82.3 (8)	149.48	81.62

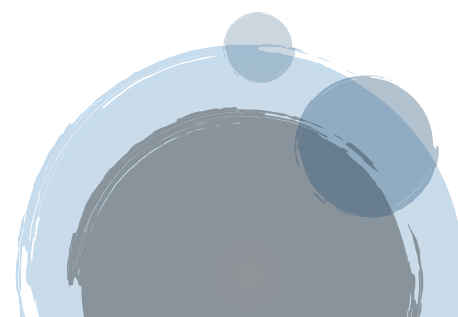

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
77	6 th	7 th	66 (-11)	7 th	-1	-

Last season's belt winner squeaked into the playoffs thanks to the new conference format after a summer of rebuilding, then retooling then trading his biggest winning piece for an injured player, a gambling addict and those precious 3rd round picks. Dave loves a trade but has it stopped him from retaining the belt this year?

Dave's had an inconsistent year never putting more than three wins in a row together. His second appearance in the playoffs comes largely down to wins over his division and Ross. Like most everyone else, Dave's team was plagued by injuries, including those to Freiermuth, Mac Jones, Jimmy G, Chark, Juju, Stafford, Elijah Mitchell, Calvin Austin, Kyle Philips and Jahan Dotson.

Dave's fell a little below expectations but has done this despite his players rarely featuring in the top scoring position only picking up 5 of these weekly awards. Conversely, he did leave quite a few points on his bench, taking the weekly 'awards' 6 times. Dave finally won a best manager award and was worst manager just once.

Going into the playoffs, Dave's team is a bit banged up but ready to go. Would it have been better with CMC? His QB and RB rooms are not as strong as they were and he doesn't have the elite receivers of the other contenders. He has the advantage of the experience of winning when it matters, will that help him take the big prize again?

VII. Inch by Inch (Dudders) – LFC 2nd – Seed #5

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
8	6	1,747.12 (6)	1,731.70 (6)	15.42 (7)	2,015.22 (6)	268.10 (1)	86.7 (1)	164.56	101.52

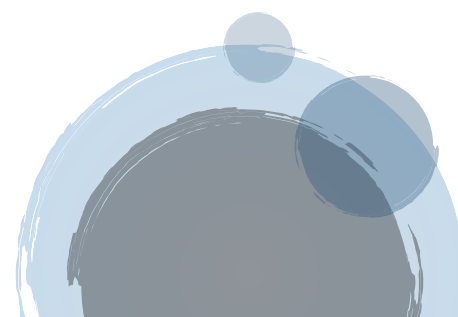

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
74	7 th	6 th	73 (-1)	6 th	+1	-

It's a déjà vu season for Dudders but can he go one better this season? In an improvement from last season, he has qualified for the playoffs with a winning record this year but his spot was wrapped up a few weeks ago thanks to the new conference setup.

It wasn't a great start for Dudders, losing three of his first five games but then won five of his last seven to secure that second spot, including two wins over Mike and one over Dave in that stretch. He's got through the season pretty lightly for injuries with those including Njoku, Cam Akers, Landry, Zak Ertz and Daniel Bellinger.

Rich's players featured fairly in the top scoring position weekly awards. He won 9 of these and with so many mediocre players on his bench he didn't take the weekly benchwarmer 'awards' regularly with just 4, the second fewest. This poor bench shined as he consistently selected a similar starting lineup which won him best manager three times, put him top of the picking charts and was worst manager just once.

With the talent in Rich's team he has every chance of taking home the championship belt if he can continue to avoid the injuries that have plagued the rest of us! He made it to the final last year, why not go all the way this year?

VIII. One Flew Over the Rookies Nest (Ross) – LFC 3rd – Seed #4

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
8	6	1,864.18 (4)	1,694.40 (4)	169.78 (3)	2,226.28 (3)	362.10 (8)	83.7 (5)	190.28	90.72

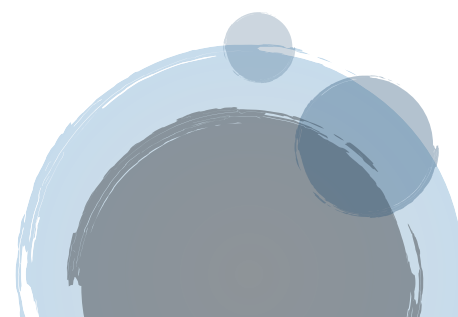

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
80	5 th	4 th	87 (+7)	4 th	+1	-

He's made to the playoffs again! One of only two teams to do that but at least it was projected this time.

It's been a season of three parts for Ross. He put up 310 points in his first two games but lost both games. Then a run of ten games where he picked up those crucial 8 victories. Then after not having scored fewer than 111 points, his team has had a crisis of confidence and put in two sub 100 performances, scraping into the playoffs on points scored. He's been pretty lucky with injuries again, only losing JK Dobbins and perhaps Mecole Hardman who may have got near his starting lineup.

So what's Ross' secret? There's no secret – it's the 60-80 points a week he gets from Josh Allen, Justin Herbert and Travis Kelce. With Travis Kelce in his team, it's no surprise that his players were often top scorers picking up 12 of these weekly awards. His bench was fairly strong or perhaps it was an inability to pick his best kicker and defence as he took a further 9 of these 'awards'. Despite making the playoffs again he never won the best manager award was worst manager twice.

Going into the playoffs he must fancy his chances of retaking the championship belt, I mean he's always confident isn't he. Does his team actually stand a chance though? Stranger things have happened – just look at our first season....or Dave winning it last year!

IX. Raiders of the Lost Yard (Jebus) – MFC 2nd – Seed #3

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
8	6	1,876.22 (3)	1,761.34 (7)	114.88 (5)	2,191.76 (1)	315.54 (2)	85.6 (2)	183.52	99.08

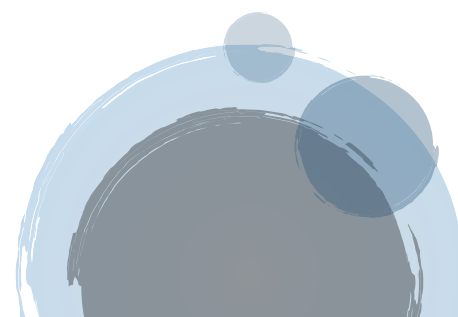

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
90	2 nd	2 nd	81 (-9)	3 rd	-1	-1

It's been far from the record-breaking season of last year for Jebus. His team obviously peaked last year and it somewhat limped into the playoffs for the third consecutive time after a bad sequence of in-conference losses from weeks 8 to 11, including two losses to the eventual MFC champion.

Like many teams he's had his fair share of injuries to Lamar, Dak, Saquon, Mixon, Deebo, Andrews, Hollywood, Cooks, McKissic and Penny.

It is not a surprise that Jebus' players have featured in the top scoring position weekly awards. He's won 12 of these. In a change from last year, he has tended to pick fairly well and his bench only took 7 weekly 'awards'. Despite having the second fewest points left on the bench he never won best manager but was worst manager once.

As with many others, Jebus has sacrificed a lot to build this would be competing team. Can it now go all the way and take the belt? With injuries in key positions, it may need a good dollop of luck to do it.

X. Tompa Bay Bucs (Mike) – LFC Champion – Seed #2

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
9	5	1,932.20 (1)	1,783.88 (8)	148.32 (4)	2,267.62 (2)	335.42 (3)	85.2 (3)	179.12	103.56

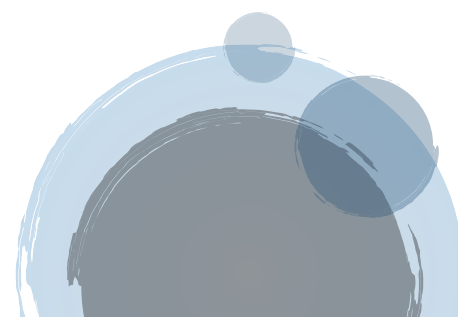

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
90	3 rd	1 st	85 (-5)	2 nd	+1	-1

Mike made one change to his team over the summer and what is pretty much an unchanged team has led to a pretty much unchanged result. He's scored pretty much the same points, potential points, missed the same number of points and secure his week 15 bye in week 14! Hopefully for Mike it's not the same end result as last season and a fourth-place finish.

Mike's side has been a model of consistency and his players matched this. One player aside, his players have rarely been the top scorer in any one position only picking up 7 of these weekly awards, predominantly at QB (3). He did leave quite a few that many points on his bench taking the weekly 'awards' 12 times, 5 times at QB.

Mike's not avoided injury this year as he did last. His RB room was most affected including Swift, Jonathan 'fucking' Taylor, Montgomery, Michael Carter and Dameon Pierce but also Kyle Pitts, Tua and Chris Olave. It's not just consistency and his QBs leading to all these victories, well it mostly is, but Mike's been picking well (third highest at 85.2%) and picked up the best manager award three times.

Going into the playoffs, Mike's team is healthy, he's got Hurts on fire and strength across most position groups. He's got as good a chance as anyone of emulating what his precious Bucs used to be and coming home with the big prize.

XI. J J F J (Lee) – MFC Champion – Seed #1

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
11	3	1,918.00 (2)	1,713.86 (7)	204.14 (2)	2,319.86 (4)	401.86 (10)	82.7 (=6)	162.94	90.64

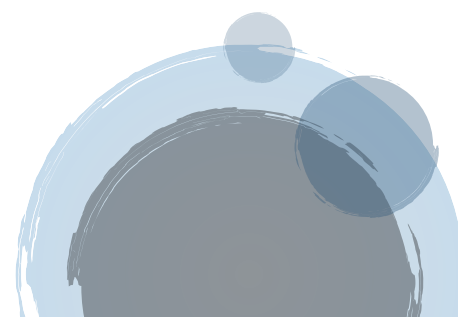

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
100	1 st	3 rd	100 (-)	1 st	-	+2

After what was a largely disappointing 2021 season, Lee has bounced back in style this year, leading the MFC and the best performing team in the league, as predicted.

It's not been a season without its challenges though. Injuries to Ja'Marr Chase, Jameis, Travis Etienne, Sutton, Nico Collins, Rondale Moore, Toney, Goedart, Trey Lance and Treylon Burks all taking its toll and perhaps forcing him into the most in-season trades; bringing in CMC, Cousins, the Sun God and Dalton Schultz for the injured Breece Hall, Kittle, Hopkins, Connor, Calvin Ridley and a load of picks.

His players have often been top scorers in weekly awards with 14, the most in the league. His inability to pick his best lineup shined through with the bench 'awards', collecting 11 of them, third most in the league. He did win best manager twice but was also worst manager once.

There's no sneaking into the playoffs with a negative record this year, he's firmly in the playoffs for the second time and has a bye week. Can he do what previous league winners have always failed to do and make a final Championship match? Or will the curse of the league leader strike again?

XII. Awards

So to our end of regular season awards. I've given you a few updates of progress along the way but who are the managers who went the extra mile to pick up the awards?

LFC Winner

Self-explanatory:

Mike

MFC Winner

Self-explanatory:

Lee

Top Scorer

Again self-explanatory:

Mike – 1,932.20

Followed by Lee (1,918.00) and your noble Commissioner (1,876.22).

Top Week Scorer

Again self-explanatory:

Ross – 190.28

Followed by your noble commissioner (183.52) and Mike (179.12).

Best Defence

Chris (again) – 1,577.48

Followed by Dave (1,615.32) and Alex (1,619.48)

Bestballer

If we had been playing Bestball and your best lineup had played every week the league winner would have been:

Lee – 2,319.86

Followed by Mike (2,267.62) and Ross (2,226.28)

Worstballer

Bottom of the bestball pile (and would be No.1 pick winner)?

Alex

Followed by Gareth and Neil

Overachiever

Who picked up the greatest number of overachiever awards? You always under-estimate the veterans in fantasy football:

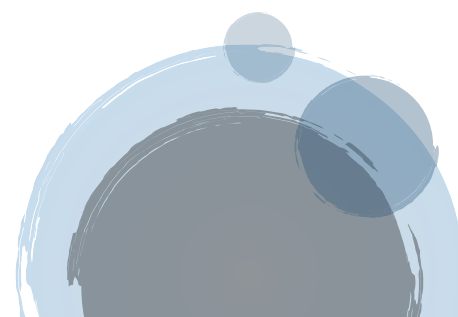

Ross

Wisest Manager

Who picked their closest to optimal team?

Dudders (again) – 86.7%

Followed by Jebus (85.6%) and Mike (85.2%)

Clueless Manager

Who basically picked their team at random?

Alex

Followed by Gareth and Dave

Fine Margins

By winning the most games by a fine margin (3):

Gareth

Fine Loser

By losing the most games by a fine margin (4):

Ross

MVP Picker

They drafted studs who outperformed all their positional counterparts the most:

Lee – 14

Followed by Chris (13) and Jebus and Ross (12)

~~Best Bench~~ Poorest Picker

They drafted studs but just couldn't fit them into their table topping teams:

Neil - 15

Followed by Mike (12) and Lee (11)