

Jessica Alba Dynasty League – Regular Season Review

I. General

We made it through week 14 with yet another record-breaking season! Thank you all for being so active and engaged in the league and for making the moves to keep the league, well parts of it, competitive.

And competitive it was in the MFC. Almost everyone was in with a shout of the playoffs and top spot with two games remaining.

Congratulations must go to Alex, Gareth and Neil; you're all in with a shout of picking up that coveted No. 1 pick in the Caleb Cup! Commiserations go to Chris who sacrificed so much but missed out on the playoffs again. There's always next year but I said that for you four last year.

You're commended, Mike, for taking the No. 1 spot quite comfortably. It helps to be in the LFC but you still had to win all those games. Congratulations to Lee, Mike, Ross and your Noble Commissioner who all entered the top 4 of the all-time scoring seasons. Dave also sneaked in at 9. This isn't too surprising given the extra flex-spot but an achievement nonetheless.

Commiserations to Alex, Gareth and Chris who put up three of the four worst seasons ever too, quite the achievement for you all.

We also had some record-breaking weekly scores. None have yet beaten that Week 5 in 2021 of 209.52 but the sixth highest ever score was achieved by Ross in week 3 but he still lost to your noble Commissioner in the very same week. That week also featured the 5th top score by Lee who would also have beaten Ross that week. Mike also hit some heights achieving the 2nd best score in week 12.

At the other end, despite having an extra flex spot, somehow 'we' had three of the lowest ever weekly scores this season. Kudos to Alex on those three sub-70 point weeks.

Let's have a look at how we all performed, hand out some awards and then reflect on what the playoffs might hold.

II. K.I.T.T.L.E (Alex) – LFC 5th – Seed #10

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
0	14	1,331.74 (10)	1,978.10 (10)	-646.36 (10)	1,749.30 (9)	417.56 (8)	76.1 (10)	131.16	65.00

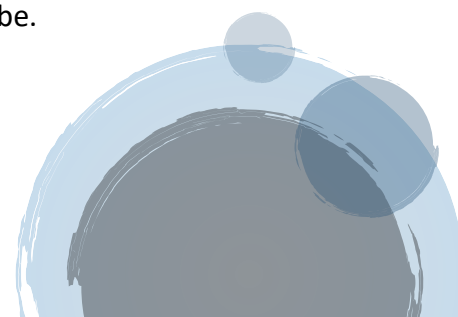

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
51	10 th	9 th	54 (+3)	10 th	-	-1

Well, what can I say about Alex's season? I know this is what was projected but I never thought I'd see a season this bad. Didn't quite manage to beat his all-time low points scored and potential points but that's probably reflective of an additional flex spot but to be the first team to go completely beaten is quite something! He did manage three of entries into weekly lows. League record losses. A league record loss streak, beating his own record from last year. Dismal. Tragic. I fear for its future if it wasn't for all those picks.

Did Alex once again suffer injury problems? Not really but if anything, he's had his least injury struck season and possibly the healthiest team in the league. It is hard to tell if third choice players are missing or not though. One thing that Alex did suffer from was extraordinarily bad matchups. He conceded nearly 2,000 points. Only 4 teams in the league would've been able to come out of Alex's season with a positive points total, so maybe, just maybe, there's a glint of light at the end of this tunnel?

His players matched last year's consistency; they were consistently bad though. He had seven top positional scorers but if you take out kickers and defences then he had just two. I suppose it's a positive he didn't leave that many points on his bench only taking the weekly benchwarmer 'awards' 7 times (all kickers and defences). It will come as no surprise with his 76.1% pick accuracy that he never won the best manager award but was worst manager a record breaking six times! He was also the lowest scoring manager five times which is an improvement on the record eight times from last year I suppose.

So, is the commitment to success in future years going to pay off? Ah, no. It seems unlikely his side is good enough to win the 1.01 unless Chris saves his day. It does look like it's good enough to take home that golden turd though. Maybe next year he can take that 1.01 or hope that Chris threepeats his misadventure or your Commissioner goes over that age cliff edge? I feel I need to end with something positive to say so.....I think he'll be a top contender in 2027.....maybe.

III. Mandos (Gareth) – LFC 4th – Seed #9

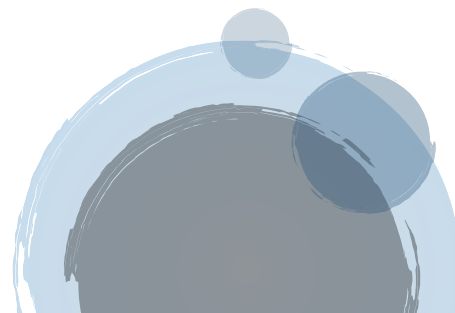

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
3	11	1,438.36 (9)	1,844.30 (8)	-405.94 (9)	1,713.54 (10)	275.18 (1)	83.9 (=4)	143.18	78.36

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
56	9 th	10 th	53 (-3)	9 th	-	+1

He came 9th last season, projected 9th for this year and he eventually finished 9th. I feel like I'm repeating myself. It seems like this was deliberate but was it??? A little bit yes, a little bit no. He made those two top three picks but one of them doesn't quite look the 1.01 he was selected by the Panthers to be and Richardson lasted two and two-thirds games. He did look good when he did play though. Injuries once again plagued his side with Richardson, Fireball Jones, Kendrick Bourne, Tyrod Taylor, Christian Watson, Luke Musgrave and Zay Jones all spending periods out. Not an all-star list, is it?

As the league's second lowest actual and lowest potential points scorer, it'll come as no surprise that Gareth's players had the second fewest top scoring appearances in the weekly awards with four top scorers and just five benchwarmers. His ability to pick players has improved as he has picked up best manager once and 'won' the worst manager just once.

Gareth's Mandos made a decisive change of tac last off-season, shifting some of those veterans for younger prospects and/or picks. Will we see those picks improve his fortunes next year? One thing is for certain – the Commish will have to stump up for a new loser of all losers trophy if G wins it again this year.

IV. Falcons (Chris) – MFC 5th – Seed #8

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
3	11	1,567.94 (8)	1,805.62 (6)	-237.68 (8)	1936.74 (8)	368.80 (5)	81.0 (8)	144.30	83.98

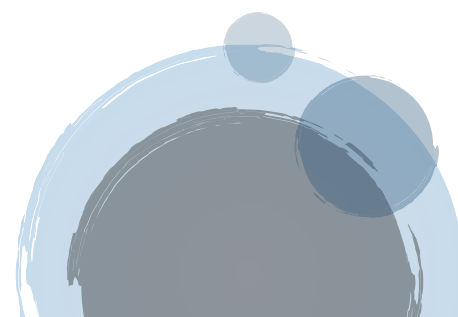

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
73	6 th	6 th	62 (-11)	8 th	-2	-2

Although Chris' team was the first 'victim' of the new conference set-up and the fierce competition in the MFC, this year he's not made the playoffs on merit....or is that demerit? His team of intrepid crooks, sex offenders and Kyler Murray started ok, winning three of his first five games (as did the whole of the MFC!), but a run of nine(!) straight defeats along with (Alex and Gareth aside) the worst actual and potential scoring, he deserves his basement finish.

But why of wise and noble Commissioner was your projection so wrong, I hear you all ask. His young offenders were struck by several injuries which contributed to his downfall including: Drake London, Kenneth Walker, Tee Higgins, Kyler Murray, Captain Kirk, Michael Thomas, Rashod Bateman, Joe Burrow and the tiny toweled twat.

It wasn't just that though, Chris' bandits only featured in a top scoring position awards three times, the fewest in the league. His did take home eight weekly benchwarmer 'awards' though, which is completely useless. Oddly enough he also never won best manager but did take home the worst manager twice! Not surprising as he was the third worst picker overall picking up just 81% of his maximum points.

Going into the toilet bowl for the third consecutive time, Chris doesn't even go in favourite for the coveted No. 1 pick.....which I'm sure Alex is gutted about. Is this a one-off issue for Chris or a sign of things to come. He might need to take some drastic measures to turn things around or just embrace the rebuild like Gareth did last year.

V. Canton Giants (Neil) – MFC 4th – Seed #7

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
8	6	1,746.36 (7)	1,795.04 (5)	-48.68 (7)	2,047.92 (7)	301.56 (2)	85.3 (2)	175.24	82.40

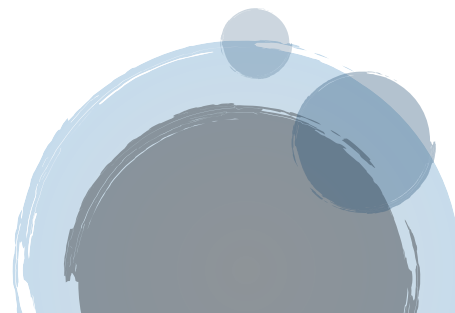

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
63	8 th	8 th	79 (+16)	7 th	+1	+1

While Neil only slightly improved on his pre-season projections, his team performed well and was in the playoff hunt in the MFC all the way to the end. His hopes have been hampered by being drawn in the stronger conference but he's made some shrewd or should I say Stroud picks, and has another couple at this draft.

Neil's not had too many injuries which has helped but injuries hitting his main man Stroud in the last couple of weeks may have cost him. An important lesson about depth perhaps?

Neil's players have often featured in the top scoring position weekly awards with 11. He's picked well and his bench only took home five of these weekly 'awards'. In fact he's picked so well he's won best manager four times!

Neil's season has every chance to end with a massive positive if Stroud can stay fit. He's got himself a lottery ticket for the 1.01 and we'll see how far he can go. One thing for certain, he'll be hoping that golden turd doesn't adorn his mantelpiece for another 12 months.

VI. Inch by Inch (Dudders) – LFC 3rd– Seed #6

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
8	6	1,762.88 (6)	1,754.82 (3)	8.06 (6)	2,090.94 (6)	328.06 (3)	84.3 (3)	165.26	84.72

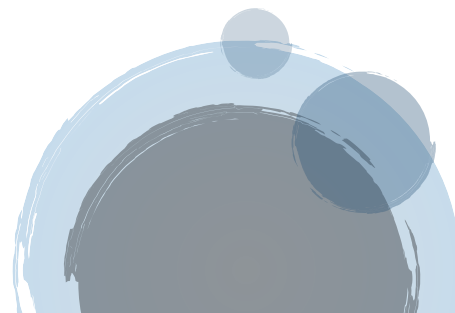

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
66	7 th	7 th	79 (+13)	6 th	+1	+1

Now we've dealt with this year's losers, we move onto the winners and first up is Mr Dudley. It's been a déjà vu season for Dudders scoring and conceding very nearly an identical amount of points with the same record with near enough an identical set of players. I suppose at least he's made the playoffs so can he go one better this season or will we see an identical result? Dave will be hoping not.

It's been a bit of a patchy season for Dudders, who's only managed back-to-back wins once this season. He's beaten everyone he should have but lost to all the better placed teams. He's got through the season pretty lightly for injuries overall but possibly suffered where it mattered most losing Aaron Rodgers after just four snaps and Fields for a period too.

Rich's players featured frequently in the top scoring position weekly awards. He won 11 of these and with so many mediocre players on his bench he didn't take the weekly benchwarmer 'awards' regularly with just five, the joint fewest. This poor bench shined as he consistently selected a similar starting lineup which won him best manager twice, put him third of the picking charts but was surprisingly worst manager twice.

Rich's team he has every chance of taking home the championship belt if he can continue to avoid the injuries that have plagued the rest of us! He made it to the semi-final last year, why not go all the way this year?

VII. breecetie boys (Dave) – LFC 2nd – Seed #5

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
8	6	1,899.84 (5)	1,699.76 (2)	200.08 (4)	2,385.74 (5)	485.90 (10)	79.6 (9)	175.48	97.52

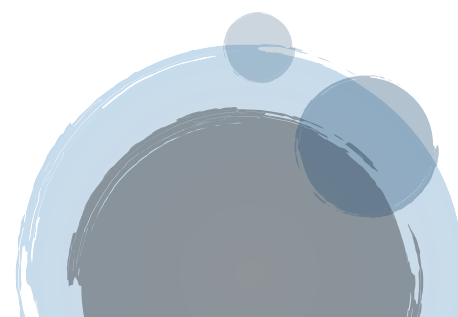

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
85	3 rd	4 th	84 (-1)	5 th	-2	-1

Our previous belt winner squeaked into the playoffs last year thanks to the new conference format and has benefitted once again from four matchups against teams which don't put up much of a fight. He picked up his four other wins against MFC opponents as he seems incapable of beating Mike and Rich. Dave's trading has continued unabated but his starting lineup is made up more from draft picks and waiver wire pickups than anything else.

Dave's had an inconsistent year never putting more than three wins in a row together. Like most everyone else, Dave's team was beset somewhat by injuries, particularly Jahmyr Gibbs, Kincaid, The Muth, WALL-E and Sir Nicholas (Chubb).

Dave fell a little below expectations probably because his players rarely feature in the top scoring position only picking up 4 of these weekly awards in skill positions. Conversely, he had the most points on his bench – nearly 500 points! Leaving so many points on his bench unsurprisingly never won a best manager award but did win worst manager twice.

Going into the playoffs, Dave's team is ready to go back into battle with Rich. His QB situation seems a bit up in the air and his record against Rich this year is woeful. Would he be in a better situation with Dak at QB and CMC at RB? He has the advantage of the experience of winning when it matters, will that help him take the big prize again?

VIII. One Flew Over the Rookies Nest (Ross) – MFC 3rd – Seed #4

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
9	5	2,062.92 (3)	1,806.12 (7)	256.80 (3)	2,457.86 (3)	394.94 (7)	83.9 (=4)	189.12	110.72

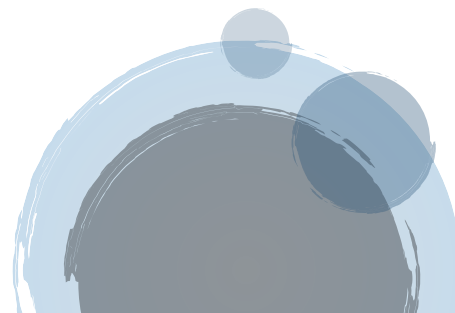

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
75	5 th	5 th	89 (+14)	4 th	+1	+1

He's made to the playoffs again! One of only two teams to be ever-present in the finals but after his first run he's not made it past the first round. It's been a good year for Ross in general, he's scored well but sometimes even scoring 189 points isn't enough for victory!

As usual, he's been pretty lucky with injuries again, only losing JK Dobbins and Goedart who may have got near his starting lineup for extended periods. Well, that was until last weekend where he lost Herbert for the playoffs! Finally, Ross made a change of tac in the summer and signed himself a half decent backup, so he'll be riding with Russell Wilson this year.

He may have traded away Travis Kelce but a combination of Josh Allen, Mostert and Ceedee Lamb means Ross has hauled in 11 top scorers picking up 12 of these weekly awards. Unusually, his bench has been fairly good picking up 12 benchwarmer 'awards'. Ross has also actually picked quite well this year and has even won himself a best manager award. He also won worst manager once.

Going into the playoffs he must fancy his chances of retaking the championship belt, I mean he's always confident isn't he? Does his team actually stand a chance though? Stranger things have happened – just look at our first two season's winners!

IX. Raiders of the Lost Yard (Jebus) – MFC 2nd – Seed #3

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
10	4	2,063.30 (2)	1,910.76 (2)	152.54 (5)	2,400.66 (4)	337.36 (4)	85.9 (1)	191.60	106.76

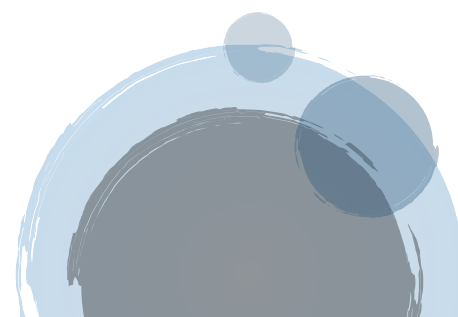

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
88	2 nd	3 rd	96 (+8)	3 rd	-1	-

It's been a far from the dominant season than the ones of yonder for Jebus' aging side. His team obviously peaked two years ago but won the all-important belt last year. After nine games his side was 5-4 and on the cusp on not making the playoffs but a clean sweep in the divisional round of games secured a playoff spot for the fourth consecutive time and was just 6 points from winning the MFC.

Like many teams he's had a few injuries to some starters such as Saquon, Andrews, Aaron Jones, James Connor and Cooper Kupp but avoided major injuries to his QBs, so far.

With a few big-name stars, particularly Tyreek Hill, it is no surprise that Jebus' players have regularly featured in the top scoring position weekly awards. He's won 14 of these, the most in the league. Even though he was the best picker in the league – earning two best manager awards along the way – his bench still took the second most benchwarmer 'awards' with 12!

As with many others, Jebus has sacrificed the farm to build this would be competing team. Can it now go all the way and be the first to retain the belt? He's got the pedigree to do it but will probably need another good dollop of luck to do it.

X. J J F J (Lee) – MFC Champion – Seed #2

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
10	4	2,068.96 (1)	1,775.60 (4)	293.36 (2)	2,535.36 (1)	466.40 (9)	81.6 (7)	190.20	110.44

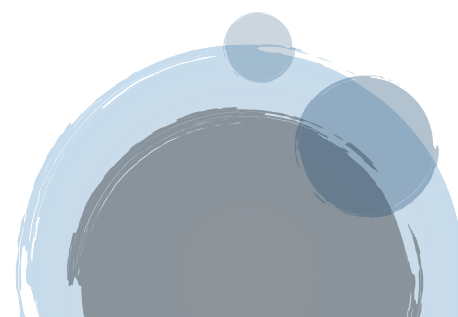

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
100	1 st	1 st	96 (-4)	2 nd	-1	-1

After leading the MFC last year and being projected as the best team he's not quite lived up to those lofty expectations. Yes, he won the MFC, scored the most points and the most potential points but fell a bit short of the overall number one as he wasn't in the LFC.

It's not been a season without its challenges though. Injuries to ARSB, Justin Jefferson, Ekeler, Kelce, Derek Carr, Kenny Pickett, Brian Robinson, Diontae Johnson, Nico Collins and Kirk Cousins have all taken their toll. Why mention the mediocre QBs? Well, that's Lee's QB room for you.

His players have somewhat underperformed too as shown by just six weekly top scorers. Or maybe it was his inability to pick his best lineup as he came 7th in that category and amasses 14 benchwarmer 'awards', the most in the league. Saying that he did win best manager twice but was also worst manager once.

He's firmly in the playoffs and has a bye week for the second consecutive time. Can he do what previous league winners have always failed to do and take home the belt? Or will the curse of the league leader strike again?

XI. Tompa Bay Bucs (Mike) – LFC Champion – Seed #1

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
11	3	2,061.60 (4)	1,633.78 (1)	427.82 (1)	2,467.76 (2)	406.16 (8)	83.5 (6)	192.42	98.42

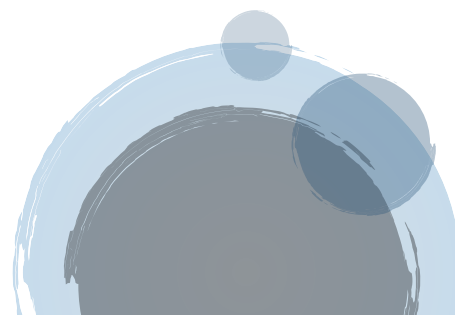

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
80	4 th	2 nd	100 (+20)	1 st	+3	+1

Mike made no changes to his team over the summer and what is pretty much an unchanged team has led to a pretty much unchanged result. Given we have an extra flex spot, he's scored pretty much the same points, potential points, missed the same number of points and secure his week 15 bye in week 11! Hopefully, for Mike, it's not the same end result as last season and a second-place finish.

Mike's side has been a model of consistency and his players matched this, more or less every week he got between 140 and 160 points. His players have been consistent but not those elite players scoring exceptional numbers. His players have rarely been the top scorer in any one position only picking up eight of these weekly awards, predominantly at TE (3) but he did leave quite a few points on his bench taking the weekly 'awards' nine times, 4 times at QB (poor neglected Tua).

Mike's largely avoided injuries this year with once again his RB room was most affected including Jonathan 'fucking' Taylor, Montgomery and Kyren Williams. Whilst there's been consistency and Jalen Hurts leading to all his victories, his players seem to be winning in spite of him. Mike's been the 6th best picker, losing over 400 points and picked up the best manager award just once.

Going into the playoffs, Mike's team is more or less healthy and strength across most position groups. He's got as good a chance as anyone of emulating what his precious Bucs used to be and coming home with the big prize.

XII. Awards

So to our end of regular season awards. I've given you a few updates of progress along the way but who are the managers who went the extra mile to pick up the awards?

LFC Winner

Mike

MFC Winner

Lee

Top Scorer

Lee – 2,068.96

Followed by your noble Commissioner (2,063.30) and Ross (2,062.92). Note: These are the top three all-times scores!

Top Week Scorer

Mike – 192.42

Followed by your noble commissioner (191.60) and Lee (190.20).

Best Defence

Mike – 1,633.78

Followed by Dave (1,699.76) and Rich (1,754.82). Note: All in the LFC.

Bestballer

If we had been playing Bestball and your best lineup had played every week the league winner would have been:

Lee (again) – 2,535.36

Followed by Mike (2,467.76) and Ross (2,457.86)

Worstballer

Bottom of the bestball pile (and would be No.1 pick winner)?

Gareth

Followed by Alex and Chris

Overachiever

Who picked up the greatest number of overachiever awards?

Neil (5)

Wisest Manager

Who picked their closest to optimal team?

Your noble Commissioner – 85.9%

Followed by Neil (85.3%) and Rich (84.3%)

Clueless Manager

Who basically picked their team at random?

Alex

Followed by Dave and Chris

Fine Margins

By winning the most games by a fine margin (3):

Your noble Commissioner and Ross

Fine Loser

By losing the most games by a fine margin (3):

Alex and Ross

Biggest Winner

By winning the most games by a large margin (5):

Mike

Biggest Loser

By losing the most games by a large margin (5):

Gareth

Followed by Alex and Neil (4)

MVP Picker

They drafted studs who outperformed all their positional counterparts the most:

Your noble Commissioner – 14

Followed by Neil, Rich and Ross (11)

~~Best Bench~~ Poorest Picker

They drafted studs but just couldn't fit them into their table topping teams:

Lee - 15

Followed by Jebus and Ross (12) and Mike (9)

XIII. Conclusion

It's been another good season. We've seen fortunes rise and fall and a lot of injuries throw a spanner into some carefully laid plans. The addition of the second flex spot I think has introduced some extra volatility in results which has given us some of the surprises that we see in the NFL and long may that continue.

Alex has kept it tight, gathering extra picks, hoping for luck to emerge at a future draft; there was shimmers of light for the future of Mandolor; the Felons seems to be at a threshold of a big change but will they choose reform or to reoffend; the future in Canton seems to be Giant which proves how important making the right QB pick is; Rich is showing us just what you can achieve by literally improving your team Inch by Inch; Dave's once again rebranded with a player name and reaping the benefits of that methodology; those Rookies don't seem to be flying from the nest very well, maybe he needs some new scouts; the draft pick bank was once again Raided to try and gain those lost yards at RB but is one 21 year old enough to cover for 20 aging players; with FJ gone and JJ injured perhaps the focus should be on EQB (elite QB) to push the team to dominance; and, if Mike seems to covet his players as he does his outdated team name, perhaps it's time to retire his approach like his team name if he can't win this year.

XIV. Playoffs Round 1

At the bottom end of the league is our battle for the top picks. The third instalment of Clash of the Gash gives one of Alex and Gareth the opportunity to steal the 1.01 for themselves while the other will face a must-win game to avoid the golden turd. Gareth won the first two games this year but Alex won last year's matchup when it mattered. Will history repeat itself?

In the MFC we have the reverse of last years fixture. The Felons were on a hot run and just missed out on the playoffs while Neil's fate was decided much earlier. Chris maintained that good form and ran out winner last time. Neil will be hoping to return the favour this time but no-one will be cheering on Chris' team more than Alex!

Not fighting at the top are Mike and Lee who are sunning themselves for week 15. Less stress for them but there's still that worry that their players will be playing and it doesn't appear anyone is safe from injury this year. As we all know the league winners never take home the belt so let's have a look at our final four:

In the LFC, it's Rich against Dave again. Dave will be wanting revenge against Rich for last years defeat, oh and the two this year too. It's not a great run of form and Dave will be hoping the form book can be thrown out of the window.

In the MFC, two champs face off again. Ross is on a run of losses against the Raiders, even scoring 189 points couldn't save him this season. Both sides face injuries to a couple of their stars, most notably the loss of Herbert for Ross and possibly Tyreek for your noble Commissioner! There was two points in it last year and it could well be another tight affair again.

Good luck to everyone but maybe a bit less for Ross.