

Jessica Alba Dynasty League – Regular Season Review

I. General

We made it through week 14 with yet another record-breaking season! Thank you all for being so active and engaged in the league and for making the moves to keep the league, well parts of it, competitive.

And competitive it was in the LFC. It was an exciting end to the LFC with the champion being crowned in overtime on Monday Night Football with Dave and his breectie boys snatching the LFC for the first time by just three points over former champion and former Eagles based franchise owner, Mike. It wasn't quite as close at the top of the MFC but the last playoff spot was decisively won by Ross who took down the Felons starting with his kicker on Thursday Night!

Congratulations must go to Gareth, Neil, Rich and Gareth (nee Chris); you're all in with a shout of picking up that coveted No. 1 pick in the Jeremi(y)ah Bowl! This still leaves just one team to never experience the joys of the toilet bowl – your humble Commissioner.

Congratulations to Dave, Mike, Lee and Alex who all enter the all-time scoring seasons rankings at 3rd, 4th, 5th and 10th, respectively. Contributing to these scores we had some record-breaking weekly scores. The 5th best score was put up in Week 5 with 199.22 by Mike. The 8th best score was put up in Week 12 by Dave with 196.68 who also had an entry at 10th in Week 8 with 195.74 points. Also in Week 8 Alex put up the 9th best with 196.16. It now needs a score in excess of 195 points to enter the top ten!

At the other end, despite having an extra flex spot and TEP scoring, somehow 'we' had the lowest ever weekly scores this season. Kudos to Gareth on that measly 52.14 total in Week 11. Rich also registered the 10th worst score ever at 69.04 points. Just miraculous lads and the LFC have eight of the lowest ever scores now.

Let's have a look at how we all performed, hand out some awards and then reflect on what the playoffs might hold.

II. Inch by Inch (Rich) – LFC 5th – Seed #10

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low	Median	Form
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
3	11	1,477.98 (10)	1,797.60 (2)	-319.62 (9)	1,752.76 (10)	274.78 (1)	84.3 (3)	148.42 (9)	69.04 (9)	105.64 (10)	103.80 (9)

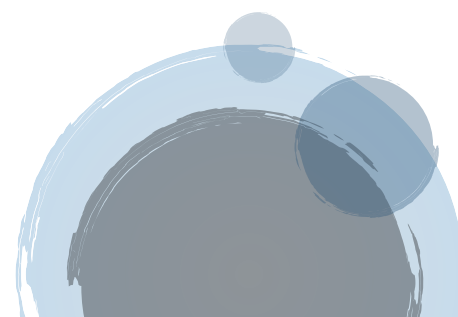

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
62	8 th	7 th	52 (-10)	10 th	-2	-3

First up and there's no surprise that it's an LFC team with Rich making his second appearance in the toilet bowl since our inaugural season. I suppose with so little trading the team was bound to run out of steam and some point and here we are. Pre-season expert predictions were a bit generous and he defied them by finishing dead last. His defence has been excellent this year, conceding just under 1,800 points – a bit concerning then that he has over a 300 negative points difference.

Like most teams this year, Rich has suffered with injuries this year losing a significant amount of players to injury and filling his IR for most of the season. His running back room hit hardest. But when your starters were RJ Harvey, Ekeler and a load of backups, there probably wasn't much hope from the start.

Rich's players featured infrequently appeared in the top scoring position weekly awards. He won just two, the fewest in the league. With so many mediocre players on his bench he also didn't take the weekly benchwarmer 'awards' regularly with just two, the fewest again. The lack of options contributed to a similar starting lineup which won him best manager twice. However, he did have some nightmare weeks contributing to two worst manager awards.

Rich's team has a slim chance of taking home the number one pick if he continues his regular season form. He did beat Mike last week though so anything is possible! But if it's from any other week he may be trying to avoid the golden turd.

III. Mandos (Gareth) – LFC 4th – Seed #9

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low	Median	Form
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
4	10	1,489.78 (9)	1,949.98 (9)	-460.20 (10)	1,988.32 (9)	498.54 (9)	74.9 (10)	131.32 (10)	52.14 (10)	107.88 (9)	103.80 (10)

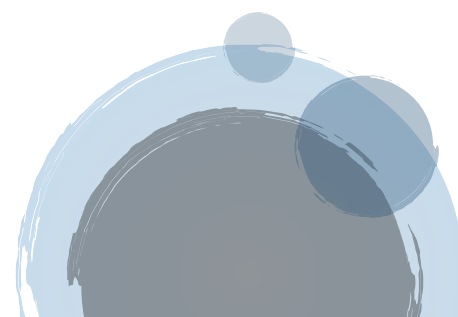

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
45	10 th	10 th	52 (+7)	9 th	+1	+1

Just look at those tables. If Gareth was a gymnast, he'd be delighted with those ranks! However, this is dynasty fantasy football and we are a 10-man league. The pre-season projections were very nearly right in this instance, but as the man himself said, you "don't need a complex algorithm to hit this prediction for [insert year here]". It seems like this was deliberate but was it??? A little bit yes, a little bit no. He's sold his old players and made some high draft picks. Maybe we just have to wait a couple of years, like we did with Alex? I would love to say there's light at the end of the tunnel but I just can't see it yet. It would also be remiss of me to mention the defensive difficulties Gareth has had this year. He conceded almost 2,000 points, more than any team in the LFC scored. That's a uphill battle no matter how shit your team is.

While, Gareth's team was beset by injuries mainly to any QB who had the misery to be picked up by his side – Richardson, Penis, Young, Mac Jones, he wasn't any worse off than other sides. Also, it's not an all-star list, is it?

As one of the league's two lowest actual and potential points scorers, it'll come as no surprise that Gareth's players had the second fewest top scoring appearances in the weekly awards with three top scorers and but somehow ended with 12 benchwarmers – five of these were kickers though. His ability to pick players has gone downhill though as he didn't pick up a best manager once and 'won' the worst manager twice.

Gareth's Mandos are just off the bottom of the curve and surely with two top four picks we'll see those fortunes improve next year? Will he take the Loser of All Losers Trophy for a fourth time or can his stay in that hunt for the no. 1 pick.

IV. Canton Giants (Neil) – MFC 5th – Seed #8

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low	Median	Form
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
5	9	1,849.96 (7)	1,862.58 (6)	-12.62 (6)	2,274.22 (6)	424.26 (6)	81.3 (6)	186.34 (5)	93.50 (7)	131.74 (6)	133.65 (6)

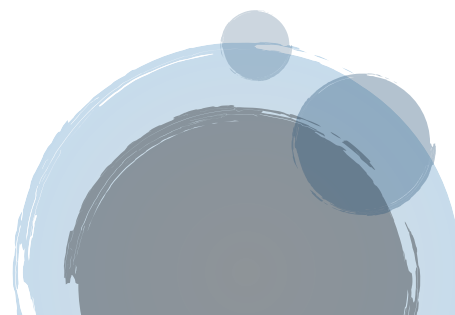

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
55	9 th	9 th	72 (+17)	8 th	+1	+1

Our first MFC entry is once again Neil. Already suffering from a very competitive conference, he slightly exceeded expert predictions by finishing 8th. It's taken a while for those top picks of his to get going and that's left his team to suffer a bit. Another high pick this year means he'll be able to add to that Stroud/Dart QB core to provide a solid base for competing in future. But for now, things don't look too rosy.

Like most of the MFC, Neil's had many many injuries which hasn't helped his cause. An important lesson about depth perhaps but what can you do with 7 to 8 players on IR for most of the season?

Neil's players have occasionally featured in the top scoring position weekly awards with seven. He's not picked well and his bench took home eight of these weekly 'awards'. In fact he's picked so badly he's never won best manager but been worst manager twice.

Neil's season has every chance to end with a massive positive if Achane can stay fit and Egbuka can remember how to catch. He's got himself a lottery ticket for the 1.01 and we'll see how far he can go. One thing for certain, he'll be hoping that Loser of All Losers trophy doesn't adorn his mantelpiece for another 12 months.

V. Falcons (Chris) – MFC 4th – Seed #7

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low	Median	Form
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
6	8	1,871.96 (5)	2,012.52 (10)	-140.56 (8)	2,181.78 (8)	309.82 (3)	85.8 (2)	175.50 (6)	85.06 (8)	125.07 (8)	144.20 (3)

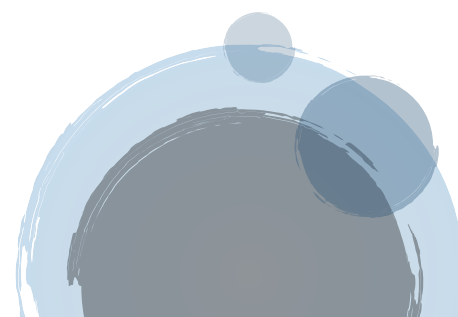

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
76	5 th	5 th	83 (+7)	7 th	-2	-2

Our second MFC team comes in at seventh, and reappearance in the toilet bowl, which lets face it is his comfort zone having only been in the playoffs twice. The (re-re)build was finally showing results but alas more injuries derailed his season once again. Dale Winton's intrepid team of crooks, sex offenders and King Henry made a late push to try to get him in the playoffs but it just wasn't enough and fell below pre-season expectations.

I don't want to make excuses for the guilty but you can't but help wonder what might have been if he hadn't suffered so many injuries. Burrow, Jennings, London, Higgins, Waller, Murray and Najee would have all contributed more to his team had they been more available. However, no-one can feel sorry for the tiny towelled twat!

Having so few options each week meant that Chris has been our second best picker. This won him best manager four times and was worst manager just once. It also meant he took home just 3 benchwarmer 'awards', It wasn't just that though, Chris' bandits featured in a top scoring position awards eleven times, the third highest in the league.

Going into the toilet bowl with the third highest form in the league will make Gareth hopeful that he can bring home that 1.01 and his choice of the Jeremi(y)ah's.

VI. The Rookies Nest (Ross) – MFC 3rd – Seed #6

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low	Median	Form
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
7	7	1,868.36 (6)	1,884.74 (7)	-16.38 (7)	2,304.76 (5)	436.40 (7)	81.1 (7)	169.10 (7)	99.92 (6)	127.63 (7)	132.45 (7)

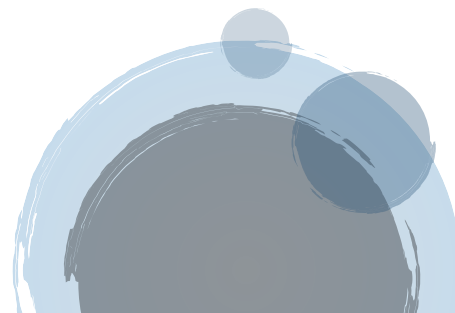

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
67	7 th	8 th	82 (+15)	6 th	+1	+2

After just one season in the toilet bowl, Ross has scraped his way back into the playoffs once more. The wheels very nearly come off for Ross' team this year but having Josh Allen means you always have a chance every week. He exceeded the pre-season rankings but looking at those rankings in the table above, maybe he's have been better off aiming for a second consecutive 1.01? You never know though, if you get a lottery ticket maybe you can ~~fluke~~ win the whole thing again?

It's been another tough year for the rookies on the injury front. Dobbins, Stevenson, Doubs, Brooks, McMillan, Ridley, Aiyuk and Levis all spending some time out. Admittedly not a stellar list of players but many Ross has to rely on from time to time. Thank god Josh Allen never got injured, eh Ross.

Ross has hauled in 11 top scorers awards – unsurprisingly, most of these were from Josh Allen. Unusually, his bench has been fairly good picking up 10 benchwarmer 'awards'. Going with, those benchwarmers is a man who can't decide who to pick in any given week is his low pick ranking at seven but only one worst manager award. He did have three good weeks though which accounts for his place in the playoffs.

Going into the playoffs he has an uphill battle facing the championship but this is Ross. He must fancy his chances; I mean he's always confident isn't he? Does his team actually stand a chance though?

VII. Raiders of the Lost Yard (Jebus) – MFC 2nd – Seed #5

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low	Median	Form
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
8	6	1,834.86 (8)	1,827.80 (4)	7.06 (5)	2,236.04 (7)	401.18 (5)	82.1 (5)	150.34 (8)	105.90 (3)	132.68 (5)	136.94 (5)

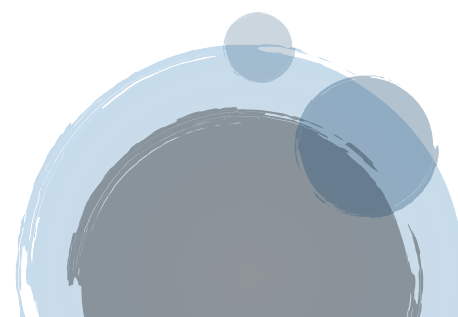

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
80	4 th	2 nd	82 (+2)	5 th	-1	-3

Next up is yet another MFC team and one who hasn't appeared this far down the list in three years. It's been a humbling year for the Commish where injury luck ran out and the creditors are banging hard on the door expecting payment. He's fallen below expectations but still managed to scrape into the playoffs for a sixth time. Surely it can't end in yet another championship though.

For the first time in several years, he had significant injuries to what would have been starters with Hill, Mixon, Conner and Mike Evans all missing for long stretches as well as Lamar taking a mid-season break. These losses in his paper-thin squad led to a bit of a down year and capped the teams top score.

With injuries and some big name players underperforming, it is no surprise that Jebus' players have not regularly featured in the top scoring position weekly awards. He's won just 6 of these, the third fewest in the league. He didn't seem to know who to play any given week and was a mid-table picker in the league – earning just one best manager award along the way.

As with many others, Jebus has sacrificed the farm to build his dynasty. Surely this team has reached the end of the road now and must confront a much put off lengthy rebuild. He can't go all the way and four-peat? No chance. He's got the pedigree to do it but would need a gargantuan dollop of luck. What he does with this team of old men is probably best to be asked once again when the season is over.

VIII. Toolsy Prospects (Alex) – LFC 3rd – Seed #4

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low	Median	Form
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
8	6	2,036.60 (4)	1,895.86 (8)	140.74 (4)	2,538.08 (2)	501.48 (10)	80.2 (9)	196.16 (3)	103.24 (4)	145.25 (3)	141.74 (4)

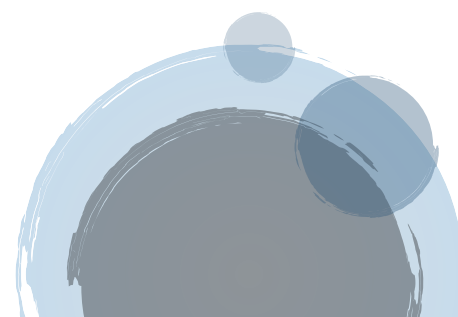

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
100	1 st	1 st	100 (-)	4 th	-3	-3

Having cleared out much of the MFC we now have a team from the resurgent LFC! Alas, Alex didn't destroying expectations as he did last season – it's hard to when you're the projected champion. He fell short of those expectations but has put up a respectable score and is safely into the playoffs. But why on humble Commissioner where the projections so wrong?

Well, as with many teams this year it's injuries. Alex's team Seemed to suffer a season ending injury nearly every week. Lamb, Jacobs, Bowers, Daniels, BTJ, Godwin, Nabers and Kraft all spent some period of time on the IR. That's possibly a league winning team there all by itself!

As with last year, while Alex was putting up some decent scores with some very consistent performers like JSN, they weren't consistently great with just eight top positional scorers but if you take out kickers and defences then he had just four. He did was almost picking at random at some points in the season as our second worst picker. This means he left a lot of points on his bench taking the weekly benchwarmer 'awards' 14 times and three worst manager awards!

So, the commitment to future success seems to be finally paying off with yet another playoff appearance! Can he go one step further than last year and win the championship?

IX. Tompa Bay Bucs (Mike) – LFC 2nd – Seed #3

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low	Median	Form
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
9	5	2,096.00 (2)	1,796.34 (1)	299.66 (1)	2,593.96 (1)	497.96 (8)	80.8 (8)	199.22 (1)	101.84 (5)	146.81 (2)	119.77 (8)

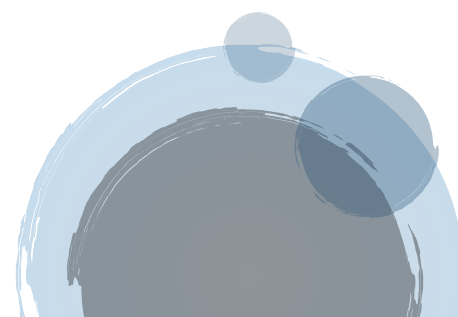

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
82	3 rd	3 rd	92 (+10)	3 rd	-	-

Another LFC is up next and it's the former Eagles based franchise. Mike made an absolutely stellar and record breaking start to the season but as you can see by his 8th place in form, he fell off some kind of wagon at the end of the season and ended up second in the LFC! He has a pretty much unchanged team from the last two years so maybe this fall in results was to be as expected – its certainly what he was projected to do. He might have been right to think he could rest on his laurels based on his start but he needs to finish strong to take the championship.

Unlike so many teams, Mike's team hasn't been so badly hit by injuries. Sure there's been one or two but this is the NFL. His dominant starting team is pretty much unchanged. Very odd. Maybe they just need a good rest?

Mike's stellar start cam on the back of some start performances picking up 14 of these weekly awards! But he did leave quite a few points on his bench taking the weekly 'awards' 15 times, the most in the league! Mike's end of season run has left him near the basement as a picker and never picked up a best manager award but he was worst manager twice.

Going into the playoffs, Mike's team has to play like it's Week 1 again. Otherwise that Bridesmaid tag is going to stick no matter what team name he picks.

X. breecetie boys (Dave) – LFC Champion – Seed #2

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low	Median	Form
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
9	5	2,099.98 (1)	1,831.60 (5)	268.38 (2)	2,495.40 (3)	395.42 (4)	84.2 (4)	196.68 (2)	116.90 (2)	144.33 (4)	153.62 (1)

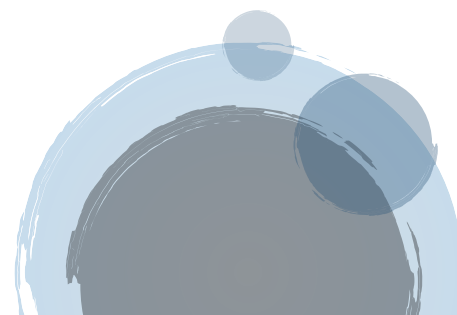

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
71	6 th	6 th	80 (+9)	2 nd	+4	+4

At number two we have the last of our LFC teams and the league's top scorer. Unlike last year it was a bit of a rocky start for Dave in his hunt for a first LFC title. But he finished strong – as can be seen from his form ranking – and Jalen Hurts made an extraordinary -4 point play to steal the title off Mike. He smashed his pre-season projections Dave's – maybe the trading slowing in pace has helped him? Or does he just have a team he's finally happy with.

A key part of Dave's success has been availability of the vast majority of his players. He's not been injury free but not had a full IR either. However, week 14 saw him lose one of his QB talismans – yes I just described Danny Dimes as a talisman. How will he cope now?

Dave exceeded expectations probably because his players featured regularly in the top scoring position, picking up 11 of these weekly awards in skill positions; he only had five benchwarmer 'awards'. He wasn't the greatest picker but he never has been. This is the third consecutive season with no best manager awards but at least he's didn't pick up a worst manager award either.

Going into the playoffs, Dave's team has a bye and is on top form. His QB situation seems a bit ropier than it was but he has the advantage of the experience of winning when it matters, will that help him take the big prize for the first time since we introduced conferences?

XI. J J F J (Lee) – MFC Champion – Seed #1

W	L	Pts (rank)						High	Low	Median	Form
		For	Against	Diff	Max For	Missed	Pick %
11	3	2,092.00 (3)	1,827.58 (3)	264.42 (3)	2,413.30 (4)	321.30 (3)	86.7 (1)	188.82 (4)	119.00 (1)	147.35 (1)	145.08 (2)

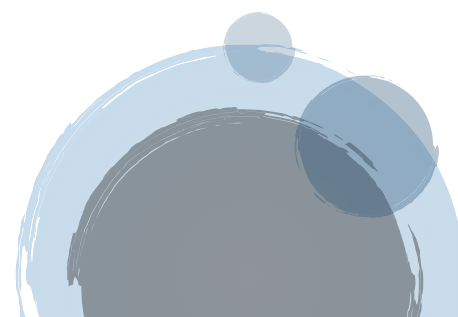

Pre-Season Rankings			Result		Difference
Power Ranking	Prediction	Jebus Ranking™	Power Ranking	Finish	Prediction	JR
83	2 nd	4 th	94 (+11)	1 st	+1	+3

Last but not least is of course an MFC team. The Boy Scouts took a third MFC Championship in four years. It's quietly been a great season for Lee consistently scoring highly, the lowest floor of any team and 11 wins to boot. He's exceeded his expectations but can he go all the way?

As with a couple of the other higher performing teams his team hasn't been too badly hit by injuries but his team has suffered with the injuries of others. Justin Jefferson and Ja'Marr Chase haven't been the formidable duo of seasons past.

His players have outperformed themselves with 11 weekly top scorers. However, he's thrown off the inability to pick his best lineup, as the leagues best picker and just eight benchwarmer 'awards'. It also means he's collected two best manager awards (for the first time in a while) and was never worst manager.

He's firmly in the playoffs once again and will be determined to take the second best form in the league to the final and take home the Championship he's craved. The league leader curse was broken by your humble Commissioner last year but is still cursed with less than elite QBs. Will this be his Achilles heel or will he finally turn this great regular season team into a great championship winning team?

XII. Awards

So to our end of regular season awards. I've given you a few updates of progress along the way but who are the managers who went the extra mile to pick up the awards?

LFC Winner

Dave

MFC Winner

Lee

Top Scorer

Dave – 2,099.98

Followed by Mike (2,096.00) and Lee (2,092.00).

Top Week Scorer

Mike – 199.22

Followed by your Dave (196.68) and Alex (196.16).

Best Defence

Mike – 1,796.34

Followed by your Rich (1,797.60) and Lee (1,827.58).

Bestballer

If we had been playing Bestball and your best lineup had played every week the league winner would have been:

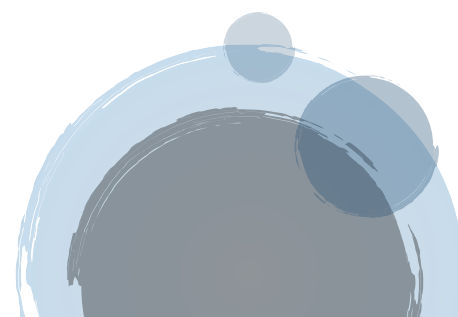

Mike – 2,593.96

Followed by your Alex (2,538.08.72) and Dave (2,495.40).

Worstballer

Bottom of the bestball pile (and would be No.1 pick winner)?

Rich

Followed by Gareth and Chris

Overachiever

Who picked up the greatest number of overachiever awards?

Chris and Dave (3)

Wisest Manager

Who picked their closest to optimal team?

Lee – 86.7%

Followed by Chris (85.8%) and Rich (84.3%)

Clueless Manager

Who basically picked their team at random?

Gareth

Followed by Alex and Mike

Fine Margins

By winning the most games by a fine margin (3):

Alex and Mike

Fine Loser

By losing the most games by a fine margin (3):

Alex

Biggest Winner

By winning the most games by a large margin (3):

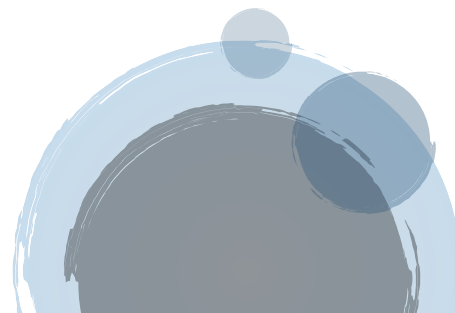

Dave, Mike and Ross

Biggest Loser

By losing the most games by a large margin (4):

Gareth

Followed by Rich (3)

MVP Picker

They drafted studs who outperformed all their positional counterparts the most:

Mike – 14

Followed by Chris, Dave, Lee and Ross (11)

~~Best Bench~~ Poorest Picker

They drafted studs but just couldn't fit them into their table topping teams:

Mike - 15

Followed by Alex (14) and Gareth (12)

XIII. Conclusion

It's been another record-breaking season. We've seen fortunes rise and fall and a lot of injuries throw a spanner into some carefully laid plans.

Rich is showing us just what you can't achieve by literally improving your team Inch by Inch; Mandalore needs those two top four picks to finally lead to good players; the future in Canton seems to be Giant which proves how important making the right QB pick is; the Felons seems to be at a threshold of a breakout season but will be doing so from the toilet bowl; those Rookies don't seem to be flying from the nest very well, maybe he needs some new scouts; the Raiders seem to be on their last yard; Alex seems to need tools that don't break so easily; Mike seems to covet his players as he does his outdated team name, perhaps it's time to retire his approach; Dave's team seems to have found that championship winning luck; can the Boy Scouts can this team finally take the belt or will CMC get injured at the crucial moment again?

XIV. Playoffs Round 1

At the bottom end of the league is our battle for the top picks. Rich lost to Gareth in both of the previous editions of the 'Clash of the Gash' but now he has the opportunity to steal the 1.01 – which part of the LFC will be battling for the turd and which for a shiney new toy to waste on their meagre teams?

In the MFC we, the Felons are back in the toilet bowl appearance against the veteran shitter in Neil. They have an equal head-to-head record in the toilet bowl but Neil will be looking to repeat previous year's success and get that precious 1.01. Chris hasn't got much skin in the game having traded his first but he will want to avoid the prospect of the Loser of All Loser title.

Not fighting at the top are Dave and Lee who are sunning themselves for week 15. Less stress for them but there's still that worry that their players will be playing and it doesn't appear anyone is safe from injury this year. Who are our remaining playoff contenders?

In the LFC, it's Mike against Alex. Their first ever playoff matchup! Mike will be wanting to prove that his team doesn't suffer from a premature performance peak and perhaps finally actually win a championship. For Alex, he'll be seeking to make the final once more but with a different result. His team in good form. It's a tasty wildcard matchup.

In the MFC, it's our fourth Rookie vs Raider faceoff. Ross has an elusive victory against your noble Commish in his locker but it was five years ago and we all regret how that year ended. Neither side has set the league alight this year. Who will win – the football gods will decide!

Good luck to everyone!

